by joytunes.com My problem is, I can't seem to update the app using $ sudo nuke.app/apps/joytunes. Here is the response: Failed to download file app://apps/joytunes-0.9.5.apk for version 6 in /system/app using new-activity. I have tried reinstalling, removing and even factory resetting, but it has not worked. I have no problems with other apps, and I know the app's available since I can reinstall it. Does anyone know what might be wrong? Thanks. A: How about using cwm, you can find your system partitions using this Select Menu and Mount Search for system or /system and mount it (if you can not find, you can try to find it in /system/system/your-path Mount it Find the apk in /mnt/sdcard/Download/downloads/ Remove any previous apk using cwm Reinstall I Hope it will help you. For details, you can follow this Q: React Native MapView: getPixelRatio() returns 0.0 When using MapView in a project built with react-native 0.27.1, getPixelRatio() returns 0.0. It's a quite strange behaviour as getPixelRatio() returns the ratio of the iPhone vs the simulator and the app is running on the simulator. Any idea how to get the correct ratio? This issue has been fixed in react-native 0.30.0 and react-native 0.30.0-rc.10. To fix it in your app, use: import { PixelRatio } from 'react-native'; Markertshof Markertshof is a small town on the coast of North Rhine-Westphalia in Germany. Markertshof is part of the municipality of Seesen. The town lies on a peninsula of the same name between the Oude Maas and the Roer rivers. The former Markertshof Channel (Mühlenbach) is now only used as a storm drain. The villages of Markertshof, Mühlenbach, Lenzen and Unterellegarten all lie 82157476af
